

Set up in 1997, Essex-based Actimax is a company that focuses on telecoms solutions. The company provides products and solutions in a number of areas including computer telephony integration, conferencing, mobile technology, two-way recording, VoIP and unified messaging.

After receiving BSI approval for computer telephony in 1998, Actimax has since won Cisco's Avvid IP Specialist accreditation and is a Mitel and Inter-Tel Platinum dealer. In November the company signed as the inaugural Gold Service Provider of telecommunications giant Telstra in the UK. The deal will help Actimax widen its portfolio of voice and data solutions to attract new customers demanding converged solutions.

John Massey, Managing Director at Actimax, commented: "We chose to strengthen our relationship with Telstra Europe as a result of its broadened portfolio of voice and data solutions; its extended commitment to the channel and excellent reputation for customer service. The service wrap around and network monitoring facilities from Telstra Europe also give us added value which we can, in turn, pass on to our customers."
